

Big Three in Army Team Face a Day of Comparative Ease, With the Hardest Game for the Princeton Eleven

ARMY TEAM IN DAY'S BIG TEST

Football Game With Notre Dame Is the Feature.

PENN. FACES DEFEAT

Penn State Favored Over Rival—Tigers Tackle West Virginia.

By DANIEL.

This promises to be a day of comparative ease for the Big Three in football. After the hectic doings of the last fortnight they are entitled to an afternoon of freedom from strain. If there is a threat of any trouble at all among the trident trio it is directed at Princeton, which will meet West Virginia.

Last week the Mountaineers were stunned by Yale, by three touchdowns to none, and gave only scattering evidences of ability to develop a serious problem for the Tigers. But it was the game the medium of its annual sensation. Even at that we do not think that Princeton will be hard pressed. For the Tigers the contest will be one of revenge. Last October Rodgers and his supporting cast hurled Princeton into the slough with a defeat by 25 to 0.

As matters turned out that setback was not the worst thing which could have happened to Bill Roper's charges, for they rose out of that defeat a stronger, a mightier host and came through with sensational deeds against Harvard and Yale. But that 25 to 0 sting still smartens. And West Virginia is going to the Tiger's lair fully cognizant of the fact.

Yale had little trouble in gaining against West Virginia any day, but it is not the line which supported Rodgers last season. Princeton will send against the Mountaineers a line which gained a lot of valuable experience against the Navy, and came to outplay the visiting forwards. As for the backfield, the Tigers will show West Virginia two stars for its one. But it should be a mighty interesting game.

Harvard, fresh from its triumph against Centre College, will take on another representative of the South—the eleven from old Virginia. The team from Charlottesville met a similar opposition last season. Rutgers last Saturday, and showed a fast and resourceful line, which was the main factor in the victory by 7 to 0. But we do not think that the Virginia line will be the main factor in the victory. Princeton won the West Virginia game last season by 25 to 0. There is no Thurman on the present Virginia combination.

Yale faces easy game. Yale to-day will get a bit of a breathing spell, and is likely to use most of its substitutes against Colgate—once the mighty Maroon, but now reduced to the shabby genteel state. In other years Yale-Colgate contest meant a real tussle—anybody's game. Twice, in 1913 and 1915, Colgate came through with victory in truly sensational style. But hard times have struck the Colgate team. It has lost two veterans, it has been buffeted about by the lowliest of the lowly, and last Saturday hit the ebb of its football fortunes with a defeat by Cornell by 42 to 0.

Yale, on the other hand, is a team which is coming into fine shape. It fell below par in the Boston College game, but rose above it against West Virginia. It is too bad that Colgate is not in a position to give Tad Jones' team a real test.

For the big games of the day one will have to go outside of the Big Three. For football followers in this section the feature will be the seventh annual meeting of the Army and Notre Dame at West Point. The annual game between Pennsylvania and Penn State, to be played at Philadelphia, will have a more important bearing on the Eastern football situation, but it certainly will be more interesting than the shindig up at the Point. The Syracuse-Holy Cross game at Worcester and the Columbia-Williams affair at South Field also will be watched with great interest.

Army-Notre Dame Problem. The Army-Notre Dame game is a hard one to "dope" out. The Cadets have shown power, but they have not met any team which could extend them. Telford, Marshall, Middleberry, Springfield and Tufts presented neither attack nor defense which could baffle Charley Day's men. Notre Dame, on the other hand, has been up against strength and has come through with colors flying.

The Howlers have beaten Nebraska's powerful eleven by 16 to 7 and Yale's heavy team by 28 to 3. Valparaiso had held Harvard to 21 to 0—all points scored in the second half. Notre Dame has a typical Notre Dame team—fast, not too heavy and strong, with versatility and shiftness as its outstanding virtues. It is reported to be expert with the forward pass, which it brought to West Point for its sensational victory in 1918.

Pennsylvania, still stunned by the astonishing trouncing it got from Virginia Military Institute, is not likely to come within two touchdowns of Penn State. The State adherents are making all sorts of predictions, going so far as to look for a triumph modeled after the 29 to 0 affair which it scored over Penn in their first game in 1920. Penn and Penn State have played twenty-three games and the edge in favor of Penn is a big one. It has won seventeen games, hitting the high mark of 47 to 0 in 1899. Penn State has won five games, and one that of 1909, was a 3 to 3 tie. Penn won last year by 10 to 0 and in

Football Programme for This Afternoon

Army vs. Notre Dame, at West Point, Princeton vs. West Virginia, at Princeton. Yale vs. Colgate, at New Haven. Harvard vs. Virginia, at Cambridge. Princeton Freshman vs. Yale Freshman, at New Haven (A. M.). Stevens vs. Williams, at South Field. Boston College vs. Springfield, at Springfield. Cornell vs. Rutgers, at Ithaca. Boston College vs. Springfield, at Springfield. Harvard Freshman vs. Andover, at Andover. Pittsburgh vs. Lafayette, at Pittsburgh. Syracuse vs. Holy Cross, at Worcester. Amherst vs. Hamilton, at Amherst. Cornell vs. Vermont, at Ithaca. Washington and Jefferson vs. Westminster, at New Castle. Rochester vs. Rochester, at Rochester. Bates vs. Bowdoin, at Lewiston. Maine vs. Colby, at Waterville. Massachusetts Aggies vs. New Hampshire, at Amherst. Boston University vs. Connecticut Aggies, at Boston. Allegheny vs. Grove City, at Meadville. Cornell vs. St. Bonaventure, at Lewisburg. Buffalo vs. Hobart, at Buffalo. Cornell Tech. vs. St. Michael's, at Potsdam. Geneva vs. Alfred, at Beaver Falls. Gettysburg vs. Dickinson, at Gettysburg. Haverford vs. Bryn Mawr, at Haverford. Pennsylvania Military vs. Susquehanna, at Chester. St. Joseph's vs. Canisius, at Canton. Swarthmore vs. Franklin and Marshall, at Swarthmore. Union vs. Rhode Island, at Schenectady. Western Maryland vs. Breard, at Philadelphia. Centre vs. Georgia Tech., at Atlanta. Washington and Lee vs. Virginia Poly., at Lynchburg. Virginia Military Institute vs. North Carolina, at Blacksburg. Michigan vs. Tulane, at Ann Arbor. Cornell vs. Ohio State, at Chicago. Indiana vs. Northwestern, at Indianapolis. California vs. Oregon Aggies, at Corvallis. Stanford vs. Oregon, at Palo Alto.

INTER-SCHOOL GAMES. Hills School vs. Lawrenceville, at Ohio Field, N. Y. Cornell vs. Washington, at Ohio Field. Adelphi vs. Barnard, at Ohio Park, N. Y. Poly Prep vs. New Utrecht, at Commercial Field. N. Y. Hackley School, at Tarrytown, N. Y. Glen Cove vs. Marquand, at Glen Cove, N. Y. South Side vs. Freeport, at Rockville Centre. Brooklyn Evening vs. Concordia Prep, at Yorkville, N. Y. St. John's Prep vs. Alumnus, at St. John's Field.

very likely to improve on that to-day. Penn State recently beat Dartmouth and Princeton 19 to 0, and is expected to beat Harvard and Lafayette tonight to make a hard game, with Pitt the winner. Syracuse should win over Holy Cross with something to spare. The Orange team beat Dartmouth, which greatly outscored Holy Cross.

Cornell Still Elated. Cornell, very much elated over the high score Colgate will meet, will meet sterner opposition from Rutgers, but Cornell looks like a winner. Boston College, which has been since its game with Yale, will meet Springfield—and will win.

Columbia and Williams should play a spectacular game in which Columbia will get a chance to show its true mettle. Yale's line will be the main factor in the victory. Princeton won the West Virginia game last season by 25 to 0. There is no Thurman on the present Virginia combination.

Harvard, fresh from its triumph against Centre College, will take on another representative of the South—the eleven from old Virginia. The team from Charlottesville met a similar opposition last season. Rutgers last Saturday, and showed a fast and resourceful line, which was the main factor in the victory by 7 to 0. But we do not think that the Virginia line will be the main factor in the victory. Princeton won the West Virginia game last season by 25 to 0. There is no Thurman on the present Virginia combination.

Yale faces easy game. Yale to-day will get a bit of a breathing spell, and is likely to use most of its substitutes against Colgate—once the mighty Maroon, but now reduced to the shabby genteel state. In other years Yale-Colgate contest meant a real tussle—anybody's game. Twice, in 1913 and 1915, Colgate came through with victory in truly sensational style. But hard times have struck the Colgate team. It has lost two veterans, it has been buffeted about by the lowliest of the lowly, and last Saturday hit the ebb of its football fortunes with a defeat by Cornell by 42 to 0.

Yale, on the other hand, is a team which is coming into fine shape. It fell below par in the Boston College game, but rose above it against West Virginia. It is too bad that Colgate is not in a position to give Tad Jones' team a real test.

For the big games of the day one will have to go outside of the Big Three. For football followers in this section the feature will be the seventh annual meeting of the Army and Notre Dame at West Point. The annual game between Pennsylvania and Penn State, to be played at Philadelphia, will have a more important bearing on the Eastern football situation, but it certainly will be more interesting than the shindig up at the Point. The Syracuse-Holy Cross game at Worcester and the Columbia-Williams affair at South Field also will be watched with great interest.

Army-Notre Dame Problem. The Army-Notre Dame game is a hard one to "dope" out. The Cadets have shown power, but they have not met any team which could extend them. Telford, Marshall, Middleberry, Springfield and Tufts presented neither attack nor defense which could baffle Charley Day's men. Notre Dame, on the other hand, has been up against strength and has come through with colors flying.

The Howlers have beaten Nebraska's powerful eleven by 16 to 7 and Yale's heavy team by 28 to 3. Valparaiso had held Harvard to 21 to 0—all points scored in the second half. Notre Dame has a typical Notre Dame team—fast, not too heavy and strong, with versatility and shiftness as its outstanding virtues. It is reported to be expert with the forward pass, which it brought to West Point for its sensational victory in 1918.

Pennsylvania, still stunned by the astonishing trouncing it got from Virginia Military Institute, is not likely to come within two touchdowns of Penn State. The State adherents are making all sorts of predictions, going so far as to look for a triumph modeled after the 29 to 0 affair which it scored over Penn in their first game in 1920. Penn and Penn State have played twenty-three games and the edge in favor of Penn is a big one. It has won seventeen games, hitting the high mark of 47 to 0 in 1899. Penn State has won five games, and one that of 1909, was a 3 to 3 tie. Penn won last year by 10 to 0 and in

Yale faces easy game. Yale to-day will get a bit of a breathing spell, and is likely to use most of its substitutes against Colgate—once the mighty Maroon, but now reduced to the shabby genteel state. In other years Yale-Colgate contest meant a real tussle—anybody's game. Twice, in 1913 and 1915, Colgate came through with victory in truly sensational style. But hard times have struck the Colgate team. It has lost two veterans, it has been buffeted about by the lowliest of the lowly, and last Saturday hit the ebb of its football fortunes with a defeat by Cornell by 42 to 0.

Yale, on the other hand, is a team which is coming into fine shape. It fell below par in the Boston College game, but rose above it against West Virginia. It is too bad that Colgate is not in a position to give Tad Jones' team a real test.

For the big games of the day one will have to go outside of the Big Three. For football followers in this section the feature will be the seventh annual meeting of the Army and Notre Dame at West Point. The annual game between Pennsylvania and Penn State, to be played at Philadelphia, will have a more important bearing on the Eastern football situation, but it certainly will be more interesting than the shindig up at the Point. The Syracuse-Holy Cross game at Worcester and the Columbia-Williams affair at South Field also will be watched with great interest.

Army-Notre Dame Problem. The Army-Notre Dame game is a hard one to "dope" out. The Cadets have shown power, but they have not met any team which could extend them. Telford, Marshall, Middleberry, Springfield and Tufts presented neither attack nor defense which could baffle Charley Day's men. Notre Dame, on the other hand, has been up against strength and has come through with colors flying.

The Howlers have beaten Nebraska's powerful eleven by 16 to 7 and Yale's heavy team by 28 to 3. Valparaiso had held Harvard to 21 to 0—all points scored in the second half. Notre Dame has a typical Notre Dame team—fast, not too heavy and strong, with versatility and shiftness as its outstanding virtues. It is reported to be expert with the forward pass, which it brought to West Point for its sensational victory in 1918.

Pennsylvania, still stunned by the astonishing trouncing it got from Virginia Military Institute, is not likely to come within two touchdowns of Penn State. The State adherents are making all sorts of predictions, going so far as to look for a triumph modeled after the 29 to 0 affair which it scored over Penn in their first game in 1920. Penn and Penn State have played twenty-three games and the edge in favor of Penn is a big one. It has won seventeen games, hitting the high mark of 47 to 0 in 1899. Penn State has won five games, and one that of 1909, was a 3 to 3 tie. Penn won last year by 10 to 0 and in

Yale faces easy game. Yale to-day will get a bit of a breathing spell, and is likely to use most of its substitutes against Colgate—once the mighty Maroon, but now reduced to the shabby genteel state. In other years Yale-Colgate contest meant a real tussle—anybody's game. Twice, in 1913 and 1915, Colgate came through with victory in truly sensational style. But hard times have struck the Colgate team. It has lost two veterans, it has been buffeted about by the lowliest of the lowly, and last Saturday hit the ebb of its football fortunes with a defeat by Cornell by 42 to 0.

Yale, on the other hand, is a team which is coming into fine shape. It fell below par in the Boston College game, but rose above it against West Virginia. It is too bad that Colgate is not in a position to give Tad Jones' team a real test.

For the big games of the day one will have to go outside of the Big Three. For football followers in this section the feature will be the seventh annual meeting of the Army and Notre Dame at West Point. The annual game between Pennsylvania and Penn State, to be played at Philadelphia, will have a more important bearing on the Eastern football situation, but it certainly will be more interesting than the shindig up at the Point. The Syracuse-Holy Cross game at Worcester and the Columbia-Williams affair at South Field also will be watched with great interest.

Army-Notre Dame Problem. The Army-Notre Dame game is a hard one to "dope" out. The Cadets have shown power, but they have not met any team which could extend them. Telford, Marshall, Middleberry, Springfield and Tufts presented neither attack nor defense which could baffle Charley Day's men. Notre Dame, on the other hand, has been up against strength and has come through with colors flying.

The Howlers have beaten Nebraska's powerful eleven by 16 to 7 and Yale's heavy team by 28 to 3. Valparaiso had held Harvard to 21 to 0—all points scored in the second half. Notre Dame has a typical Notre Dame team—fast, not too heavy and strong, with versatility and shiftness as its outstanding virtues. It is reported to be expert with the forward pass, which it brought to West Point for its sensational victory in 1918.

Pennsylvania, still stunned by the astonishing trouncing it got from Virginia Military Institute, is not likely to come within two touchdowns of Penn State. The State adherents are making all sorts of predictions, going so far as to look for a triumph modeled after the 29 to 0 affair which it scored over Penn in their first game in 1920. Penn and Penn State have played twenty-three games and the edge in favor of Penn is a big one. It has won seventeen games, hitting the high mark of 47 to 0 in 1899. Penn State has won five games, and one that of 1909, was a 3 to 3 tie. Penn won last year by 10 to 0 and in

Yale faces easy game. Yale to-day will get a bit of a breathing spell, and is likely to use most of its substitutes against Colgate—once the mighty Maroon, but now reduced to the shabby genteel state. In other years Yale-Colgate contest meant a real tussle—anybody's game. Twice, in 1913 and 1915, Colgate came through with victory in truly sensational style. But hard times have struck the Colgate team. It has lost two veterans, it has been buffeted about by the lowliest of the lowly, and last Saturday hit the ebb of its football fortunes with a defeat by Cornell by 42 to 0.

Yale, on the other hand, is a team which is coming into fine shape. It fell below par in the Boston College game, but rose above it against West Virginia. It is too bad that Colgate is not in a position to give Tad Jones' team a real test.

For the big games of the day one will have to go outside of the Big Three. For football followers in this section the feature will be the seventh annual meeting of the Army and Notre Dame at West Point. The annual game between Pennsylvania and Penn State, to be played at Philadelphia, will have a more important bearing on the Eastern football situation, but it certainly will be more interesting than the shindig up at the Point. The Syracuse-Holy Cross game at Worcester and the Columbia-Williams affair at South Field also will be watched with great interest.

Army-Notre Dame Problem. The Army-Notre Dame game is a hard one to "dope" out. The Cadets have shown power, but they have not met any team which could extend them. Telford, Marshall, Middleberry, Springfield and Tufts presented neither attack nor defense which could baffle Charley Day's men. Notre Dame, on the other hand, has been up against strength and has come through with colors flying.

The Howlers have beaten Nebraska's powerful eleven by 16 to 7 and Yale's heavy team by 28 to 3. Valparaiso had held Harvard to 21 to 0—all points scored in the second half. Notre Dame has a typical Notre Dame team—fast, not too heavy and strong, with versatility and shiftness as its outstanding virtues. It is reported to be expert with the forward pass, which it brought to West Point for its sensational victory in 1918.

COLLEGE HAILS RETURN OF HARRIS

Quarterback on Hand After Three Weeks Absence Strengthens Team.

Buck Harris, Columbia's quarterback, who has been among the missing for the last three weeks, made a dramatic reappearance on the scene late yesterday afternoon. O'Neill's return, Harris, and White varsity had already got into town and were on the football field when Harris, announced and unexpected, trotted out from the west gate and reported to the coach. Needless to say his arrival was hailed with joy and Columbia's chances for a victory to-day have been greatly strengthened.

The return of the prodigal, who had been at the bedside of his mother for some time, caused a general reversal in O'Neill's plans and necessitated another wholesale shakedown in the team. This time it was totally confined to the backfield and two players, who were counted on to play, were dropped. Harris, who answered the call, was back in the game, went to quarter and Canary returned to halfback. But will play at his side and Thornton will be forced to sit out. Harris, who has been away from the team for three weeks, was wholly unexpected for Appelbaum at fullback. Appelbaum has been playing in the line, and his line smashing was the sole redeeming feature of the Columbia play against Wesleyan last Saturday. Just who starts means little on an all-time basis, however, and Appelbaum is sure to get in the game.

With Thornton out of the lineup Harris will do the kicking for the Blue and White. Thornton has a slight edge on the quarterback in punting, but Harris performed mightily well against New York University, and it is on this that O'Neill has decided to give him the assignment to-day. Harris is an expert with the forward pass and easily excels any man on the team in receiving punts. The psychological effect of his return on the team cannot be estimated, and as well the playing ability of the team has been greatly increased.

Harris, of course, was somewhat unacquainted with the new formations O'Neill has been drilling the team in for the Williams game and consequently the variety was forced to go through a long drill leading until last night. The eleven was mighty glad to do it, however, and worked with a will.

Pullen will not have to be brought back from the roster, but Harris can shoot the forward passes, and if he can get the plays into his head in time there is little question that the varsity will work much more smoothly than they have in the last two weeks. The boys have confidence in Harris, and without this no team can succeed.

One other change has been made in the line. Forgive, who has played right end all season, was shifted to the left wing yesterday and Pullen moved to right.

Tigers in Light Workout. Princeton, N. J., Oct. 29.—Princeton football team had only a light workout to-day in preparation for the West Virginia game. Practice for the kickers and a short but snappy signal drill for the men who will start the contest were the only work prescribed by Coach Roper.

A glance at the lineup which ran through the plays to-day discloses the fact that several unexpected changes will be seen on the field when the game is played. The lineup for the game is as follows: Left end, Raymond; left tackle, Keck; left guard, Raymond; center, Keck; right guard, Raymond; right tackle, Keck; right end, Raymond. The lineup for the game is as follows: Left end, Raymond; left tackle, Keck; left guard, Raymond; center, Keck; right guard, Raymond; right tackle, Keck; right end, Raymond.

FRISBEE GAME GOES OVER. Bobb Watt, graduate manager of athletics at Columbia, announced yesterday that the game scheduled between Blue and White freshmen and Hamilton Invitational football team, scheduled for to-day, was cancelled. The game was cancelled because of the fact that the Hamilton team was unable to play.

35,000 EXPECTED AT CHICAGO GAME. CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—Thirty thousand persons, including a delegation of 1,000 strong from Columbia, are expected to witness the game between the Chicago Maroons and the Chicago Cardinals to-day. The game is expected to be a high-scoring affair.

CONCH HELMAN CAUSED QUOTE A STRIKE. Conch Helman caused quite a stir when he announced an eleven-hour strike in the Penn lineup that took Carl Thomas, the 181-pounder, from centre to fullback in Joe Straus's place. The Texan is not in shape, according to some of the players, but Dr. Arthur Light, the team physician, passed on him and said that he could play.

THOMAS PLAYED FULLBACK IN ONE OF TWO EARLY SEASON GAMES. This is his reentry into the lineup to-morrow afternoon, after being on the side lines for several weeks with a dislocated elbow. Vic Frank takes Thomas's place at centre.

THOMAS PLAYED FULLBACK IN ONE OF TWO EARLY SEASON GAMES. This is his reentry into the lineup to-morrow afternoon, after being on the side lines for several weeks with a dislocated elbow. Vic Frank takes Thomas's place at centre.

THOMAS PLAYED FULLBACK IN ONE OF TWO EARLY SEASON GAMES. This is his reentry into the lineup to-morrow afternoon, after being on the side lines for several weeks with a dislocated elbow. Vic Frank takes Thomas's place at centre.

THOMAS PLAYED FULLBACK IN ONE OF TWO EARLY SEASON GAMES. This is his reentry into the lineup to-morrow afternoon, after being on the side lines for several weeks with a dislocated elbow. Vic Frank takes Thomas's place at centre.

THOMAS PLAYED FULLBACK IN ONE OF TWO EARLY SEASON GAMES. This is his reentry into the lineup to-morrow afternoon, after being on the side lines for several weeks with a dislocated elbow. Vic Frank takes Thomas's place at centre.

THOMAS PLAYED FULLBACK IN ONE OF TWO EARLY SEASON GAMES. This is his reentry into the lineup to-morrow afternoon, after being on the side lines for several weeks with a dislocated elbow. Vic Frank takes Thomas's place at centre.

THOMAS PLAYED FULLBACK IN ONE OF TWO EARLY SEASON GAMES. This is his reentry into the lineup to-morrow afternoon, after being on the side lines for several weeks with a dislocated elbow. Vic Frank takes Thomas's place at centre.

THOMAS PLAYED FULLBACK IN ONE OF TWO EARLY SEASON GAMES. This is his reentry into the lineup to-morrow afternoon, after being on the side lines for several weeks with a dislocated elbow. Vic Frank takes Thomas's place at centre.

THOMAS PLAYED FULLBACK IN ONE OF TWO EARLY SEASON GAMES. This is his reentry into the lineup to-morrow afternoon, after being on the side lines for several weeks with a dislocated elbow. Vic Frank takes Thomas's place at centre.

THOMAS PLAYED FULLBACK IN ONE OF TWO EARLY SEASON GAMES. This is his reentry into the lineup to-morrow afternoon, after being on the side lines for several weeks with a dislocated elbow. Vic Frank takes Thomas's place at centre.

THOMAS PLAYED FULLBACK IN ONE OF TWO EARLY SEASON GAMES. This is his reentry into the lineup to-morrow afternoon, after being on the side lines for several weeks with a dislocated elbow. Vic Frank takes Thomas's place at centre.

THOMAS PLAYED FULLBACK IN ONE OF TWO EARLY SEASON GAMES. This is his reentry into the lineup to-morrow afternoon, after being on the side lines for several weeks with a dislocated elbow. Vic Frank takes Thomas's place at centre.

THOMAS PLAYED FULLBACK IN ONE OF TWO EARLY SEASON GAMES. This is his reentry into the lineup to-morrow afternoon, after being on the side lines for several weeks with a dislocated elbow. Vic Frank takes Thomas's place at centre.

Betting on Football Decried at Cornell

Special Despatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 29.—Taking cognizance of reports of betting by Cornell students on the Dartmouth game, Graduate Manager Berry to-day warned the undergraduate body that "professional and semi-professional gamblers, some of whom reside in Ithaca, are endeavoring to realize the possibilities of betting against undergraduates who are moved over by superstitious hope and blind enthusiasm than by clear judgment and knowledge of the facts. These men talk one way and bet the other and in the long run they swindle the innocents. They clean up on last year's Colgate game."

"Student betting," said Mr. Berry, "demoralizes the teams and jeopardizes the honor of the college. Professional gamblers like those who figured in the baseball scandal threaten college sport, and if unchecked may conspire to influence the results of games."

quad, and the Tiger coaches have been trying hard all season to develop him to fill the hole in the middle sector of the line. The legend will be on one wing while Raymond will be on the other. The freshman line started on University Field, when Keck and Murray tried drop and displacement kicks from the 50-yard mark with fair success, while Thompson was booting the ball toward the crossbar from all angles and distances. Then the scene shifted to the stadium, and a punting contest ensued between Cleaves, Murray and Thompson, the freshman outshooting the seniors, aging slightly under fifty yards' distance.

The college will look with anxiety to-morrow to detect some sign of improvement in the line, and in view of yesterday's developments in scrimmages, it seems likely that they will be encouraged. In the continued absence of Wilmer the Nassau instructors are put out, however, for a man to do the punting now that Scheerer is not available. Cleaves should be able to fill the bill. He is a popular player here, and under graduation will be a chance to see him in the regular lineup. The team will probably start against West Virginia as follows: Left end, Raymond; left tackle, Keck; left guard, Raymond; center, Keck; right guard, Raymond; right tackle, Keck; right end, Raymond.

There was a disposition in local sporting circles yesterday to take the report of the Dempsey-Carpenter match being headed for Havana with a grain of salt. The promoters stick to their story and have it that Havana will be the spot, but an analysis of the situation indicates strongly that the fight will be staged in this section of the country. The handicaps to be overcome in Cuba would be too great to permit of paying Dempsey $300,000 and Carpenter $200,000.

In so far as moving pictures are concerned, a fight in Cuba would be the most profitable. But it must be appreciated that the movies would be worth much unless the fight went some distance. As a circus size up that particular bout, it should not go more than four or five rounds. So why go to Havana for that part of the "gravy"?

In so far as the sale of tickets is concerned, conditions in Cuba at this time are rather discouraging. The bursting of the sugar bubble has left financial distress in its wake. It will be remembered that when Jack Curley ran the Willard-Johnson fight down in Havana he had to peddle his tickets, and even then got a poor response. And that was no half million dollar match, three players, Coach Rice Warren and managers. The team is in excellent physical condition, and after a week of strenuous work in preparation for the game, they are expected to show a good showing against the strong Crimson eleven. The Virginians were forced to take a terrible drubbing from Harvard last year, 47 to 0. The team this year is considerably better, however, and a smaller score is expected.

FRISBEE GAME GOES OVER. Bobb Watt, graduate manager of athletics at Columbia, announced yesterday that the game scheduled between Blue and White freshmen and Hamilton Invitational football team, scheduled for to-day, was cancelled. The game was cancelled because of the fact that the Hamilton team was unable to play.

35,000 EXPECTED AT CHICAGO GAME. CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—Thirty thousand persons, including a delegation of 1,000 strong from Columbia, are expected to witness the game between the Chicago Maroons and the Chicago Cardinals to-day. The game is expected to be a high-scoring affair.

CONCH HELMAN CAUSED QUOTE A STRIKE. Conch Helman caused quite a stir when he announced an eleven-hour strike in the Penn lineup that took Carl Thomas, the 181-pounder, from centre to fullback in Joe Straus's place. The Texan is not in shape, according to some of the players, but Dr. Arthur Light, the team physician, passed on him and said that he could play.

THOMAS PLAYED FULLBACK IN ONE OF TWO EARLY SEASON GAMES. This is his reentry into the lineup to-morrow afternoon, after being on the side lines for several weeks with a dislocated elbow. Vic Frank takes Thomas's place at centre.

THOMAS PLAYED FULLBACK IN ONE OF TWO EARLY SEASON GAMES. This is his reentry into the lineup to-morrow afternoon, after being on the side lines for several weeks with a dislocated elbow. Vic Frank takes Thomas's place at centre.

THOMAS PLAYED FULLBACK IN ONE OF TWO EARLY SEASON GAMES. This is his reentry into the lineup to-morrow afternoon, after being on the side lines for several weeks with a dislocated elbow. Vic Frank takes Thomas's place at centre.

THOMAS PLAYED FULLBACK IN ONE OF TWO EARLY SEASON GAMES. This is his reentry into the lineup to-morrow afternoon, after being on the side lines for several weeks with a dislocated elbow. Vic Frank takes Thomas's place at centre.

THOMAS PLAYED FULLBACK IN ONE OF TWO EARLY SEASON GAMES. This is his reentry into the lineup to-morrow afternoon, after being on the side lines for several weeks with a dislocated elbow. Vic Frank takes Thomas's place at centre.

THOMAS PLAYED FULLBACK IN ONE OF TWO EARLY SEASON GAMES. This is his reentry into the lineup to-morrow afternoon, after being on the side lines for several weeks with a dislocated elbow. Vic Frank takes Thomas's place at centre.

THOMAS PLAYED FULLBACK IN ONE OF TWO EARLY SEASON GAMES. This is his reentry into the lineup to-morrow afternoon, after being on the side lines for several weeks with a dislocated elbow. Vic Frank takes Thomas's place at centre.

THOMAS PLAYED FULLBACK IN ONE OF TWO EARLY SEASON GAMES. This is his reentry into the lineup to-morrow afternoon, after being on the side lines for several weeks with a dislocated elbow. Vic Frank takes Thomas's place at centre.

THOMAS PLAYED FULLBACK IN ONE OF TWO EARLY SEASON GAMES. This is his reentry into the lineup to-morrow afternoon, after being on the side lines for several weeks with a dislocated elbow. Vic Frank takes Thomas's place at centre.

THOMAS PLAYED FULLBACK IN ONE OF TWO EARLY SEASON GAMES. This is his reentry into the lineup to-morrow afternoon, after being on the side lines for several weeks with a dislocated elbow. Vic Frank takes Thomas's place at centre.

THOMAS PLAYED FULLBACK IN ONE OF TWO EARLY SEASON GAMES. This is his reentry into the lineup to-morrow afternoon, after being on the side lines for several weeks with a dislocated elbow. Vic Frank takes Thomas's place at centre.

THOMAS PLAYED FULLBACK IN ONE OF TWO EARLY SEASON GAMES. This is his reentry into the lineup to-morrow afternoon, after being on the side lines for several weeks with a dislocated elbow. Vic Frank takes Thomas's place at centre.

THOMAS PLAYED FULLBACK IN ONE OF TWO EARLY SEASON GAMES. This is his reentry into the lineup to-morrow afternoon, after being on the side lines for several weeks with a dislocated elbow. Vic Frank takes Thomas's place at centre.

THOMAS PLAYED FULLBACK IN ONE OF TWO EARLY SEASON GAMES. This is his reentry into the lineup to-morrow afternoon, after being on the side lines for several weeks with a dislocated elbow. Vic Frank takes Thomas's place at centre.

THOMAS PLAYED FULLBACK IN ONE OF TWO EARLY SEASON GAMES. This is his reentry into the lineup to-morrow afternoon, after being on the side lines for several weeks with a dislocated elbow. Vic Frank takes Thomas's place at centre.

THOMAS PLAYED FULLBACK IN ONE OF TWO EARLY SEASON GAMES. This is his reentry into the lineup to-morrow afternoon, after being on the side lines for several weeks with a dislocated elbow. Vic Frank takes Thomas's place at centre.

THOMAS PLAYED FULLBACK IN ONE OF TWO EARLY SEASON GAMES. This is his reentry into the lineup to-morrow afternoon, after being on the side lines for several weeks with a dislocated elbow. Vic Frank takes Thomas's place at centre.

THOMAS PLAYED FULLBACK IN ONE OF TWO EARLY SEASON GAMES. This is his reentry into the lineup to-morrow afternoon, after being on the side lines for several weeks with a dislocated elbow. Vic Frank takes Thomas's place at centre.

HIGH LIGHTS AND SHADOWS IN ALL SPHERES OF SPORT

By DANIEL. Copyright, 1920, by The New York Herald. THESE are indeed stirring days in baseball, with still more stirring ones to come. In the wake of the new contracts signed by Miller Huggins and Wilbert Robinson, Ed Barrow's coming to the Yankees and Johnny Evers's return to the Cubs, yesterday's development in re Hughie Jennings and the Giants hardly comes as a surprise. Jennings was too valuable an asset for the major leagues to throw off in these times of scarcity of men with ability to lead on the field, and his engagement by one club or another was foreshadowed. That he should have been signed by the Giants is particularly fortunate, as New York always has had a warm regard for the former manager of the Tigers. The acquisition of Jennings gives the New York club even a more commanding and impressive figure than Evers and a worthy leader of the Giants, should a temporary substitute for John McGraw be needed at any time.